Council views sketches of Nachusa House plan

Preliminary sketches on the remodeling of the Nachusa House and Post House were unveiled at Monday night's meeting of the Dixon City Council at City Hall.

New owner of the hotel-restaurant complex, Bob Ross, and architect John McLane Jr., showed the sketches to the council. Ross is hopeful of coordinating work done on the structure with the city's plans for remodeling of the city hall parking lot, to give the entire area a "clean" look.

McLane said preliminary plans call for the city to vacate the alley behind the Post House and Nachusa House. The alley would be leveled to the height of the city hall parking lot and a mall entrance to the hotel would be constructed at parking lot level.

Present plans call for sandblasting the buildings to restore them to their original appearance, said Ross. "We hope to take them back in time."

He said retaining walls, hopefully from native stone, would be used to dress up the back of the buildings and coordinate their looks with the city's parking lots.

Jim G. Burke, commissioner of public property, has proposed a plan to remodel the city hall parking lot. "If we go ahead with our plans, will it have much effect on what you do?" Burke asked. He cited rising costs if the city waits too long to begin its work.

Commissioner Arthur M. Tofte said he felt "this was the most money I've seen proposed yet, in an effort to upgrade the downtown area. We should help in any way we can."

Commissioner Walter P. Lohse spoke out for waiting on the city lot after hearing McLane explain that some of the earth from lowering the level of the alley could be used to build up the city lot and blend it into the hotel's parking area, giving a coordinated appearance to the whole area.

Possible hike in garbage tax levy studied by council

By WAYNE LYON

The Dixon City Council is studying a possible boost in its garbage tax levy.

At Monday night's City Council meeting at City Hall, Commissioner Thomas A. Densmore raised the possibility, calling it "not a pleasant subject, but one we have to consider."

"The garbage fund has had to continually borrow from other city funds," Densmore explained. "There is never enough revenue to meet the proposed budget."

Densmore quoted figures provided by City Treasurer Darlene Herzog. The total city tax levy is $6.1452 per $100 assessed valuation. The City Council has been levying a garbage tax of .114 per $100. That levy raised $69,361 in revenue in the current fiscal year, which ends April 30. The 1975-76 garbage budget called for expenditures of approximately $108,000.

By raising the garbage levy to .15 per $100 Densmore said, $91,264 could be realized in revenue. He added the garbage budget for the 1976-77 fiscal year would be lower than the current figure because of a cutback in the number of workers and some line items which have been trimmed.

Densmore said the difference in taxes would be less than $4 per year on property with assessed valuation of $10,000.

The city can legally levy up to .20 per $100 for the garbage fund without a referendum. The council has resisted raising the levy in past years.

Support for Densmore's viewpoint came from Finance Commissioner Walter P. Lohse, who stated, "Continued loans to the garbage fund from the other funds must be repaid. Presently there is no hope of doing so."

One other council member was not so sure. Jim G. Burke commented, "I would like to wait and see what Congress does about federal revenue sharing. It will influence how I feel about the matter."

Two items on the agenda were tabled by the council.

One was a request for a change in liquor ordinances to raise the number of 1-A licenses (beer and wine for pizza parlors) to five. The request came from Edwin E. Satterly, who would like to open a "Happy Joe's Pizza" franchise in Dixon. He called the beer and wine license crucial to the establishment of the proposed business in Dixon. The other pizza parlors have it, he reminded, and said he would need it to compete.

Commissioner Arthur M. Tofte agreed there shouldn't be a problem. "Other pizza parlors have it."

Lohse reminded Satterly it has been the council's practice to lay such proposals concerning changes in liquor ordinances over two weeks to get public input in the matter.

The council agreed to decide on the proposed change at its May 3 meeting.

Another tabled matter was a request by Tom Williams, manager of Dixon Cable TV for a rate increase.

Williams told the council the franchise had been in operation six years without a rate increase, and cited the pressures of inflation on the business.

He asked the council to grant an increase in the monthly rate for a residential hookup to $6.95, with each additional hookup in each house at $1.50. (The present rates are $5.50 and $1.)

Williams asked that the new rates become effective on Oct. 1, 1976.

Williams added when the original rates were set, they compared with those for similar service in surrounding communities. He went on to say the proposed rate increase also falls in line with the average now being charged in other cities.

Williams said the firm was planning a microwave relay system to improve reception on channels 9 and 44.

"Those are the source of most of our complaints," he explained, and added "the microwave system will bring in those channels as good as reception from Rockford or the Quad Cities."

He said the microwave system would provide another bonus for Cable TV customers. "At midnight we could switch from channel 44 to channel 2 in Chicago. Channel 2 features late movies. It could provide viewing until about 5 in the morning for those who desire it."

Densmore stated "I realize Cable TV is privately owned, but it is up to us to see if you get a rate increase. Would it be possible for us to look at your profit margin?"

Williams answered, "We are making a profit, but our return on investment is low. We would like to increase it."

Densmore then commented, "Will you give us those figures?"

Williams promised to "check with my principals."

Questions by Lohse and answers by Williams revealed the firm has about 80 per cent coverage in Dixon, with 4,190 residential hookups.

Lohse reminded council members the city does derive revenue from the granting of the franchise, just as it does from all the utilities.

The council dealt with several zoning matters.

An ordinance to amend special use categories to include automobile sales and service was given unanimous approval. Then an ordinance granting to Jack Andrews a special use permit for auto sales and service at the corner of River Street and Hennepin Avenue, was approved. The ordinance said that when the lessee of the property, Arthur M. Willstead, terminates the lease, the special use permit will also terminate.

An ordinance to rezone property at 1137, 1201 and 1209 Washington Ave., to R-5 (multiple family dwelling) was approved. It included a provision that the petitioner, Donald Peterson, extend Marclare Street from Jefferson Avenue to Washington Avenue at his expense.

Otto Kriva addressed the council as a member of the Chamber of Commerce Tourism Committee, requesting that two Thursday evening performances of the municipal band be changed to Sunday afternoons at Lowell Park.

He said the river and Lowell Park were the biggest tourist assets. He said the band already plans two Sunday performances at the park, but asked that on July 18 and Aug. 15, concerts be held at the park.

The biggest drawback is the $850 additional it will cost to pay the musicians, the difference in weekday and weekend scale.

Lohse was assigned the job of checking the condition of the band fund and seeing if the extra money was available.

The Dixon American Legion Post No. 12 and its auxiliary asked council permission to fix up the Memorial Arch across Galena Avenue and have a re-

Hughes taking job as superintendent of Fulton schools

Merrill Hughes, assistant superintendent, instruction, for Dixon Public Schools, has accepted the position of superintendent of the River Bend Unit School District at Fulton. The appointment was ratified Monday night by members of the Fulton School Board, effective July 1.

Hughes will submit his resignation to the Dixon School Board at tonight's meeting. The 44-year-old administrator was selected from a list of 95 applicants which was narrowed to six candidates. Each was interviewed by the Fulton board with the final decision made Monday.

He replaces Robert Leininger, who vacated the superintendency Jan. 1 to assume a lobbyist position with the Illinois Association for School Administrators in Springfield.

Hughes said he is looking forward to the new position and added he has enjoyed his stay in Dixon. In 1965 he was appointed principal at Jefferson Elementary School. Four years later Hughes moved to the central office staff as director of curriculum. He received his bachelor's degree in 1954 from Olivet College, Kankakee, and master's degree in school administration from Illinois State University, Normal, in 1962. In addition he has done graduate work at Northern Illinois, Colorado State and Appalachian State Universities.

Last summer, Hughes was

selected to participate in a Kettering Foundation workshop for school administrators held at Stevens College, Columbia, Mo. He was one of 500 administrators selected nationwide to participate in the workshop. Hughes said he was selected again this year, but his new position will prevent him from doing so.

No replacement for Hughes has been announced.

Hughes' salary will jump from $26,300 to $28,000 annually. The Fulton District consists of three elementary schools, a junior high and high school, serving 1,700 students. The teaching staff consists of 90 members.

Called to probe house burglary

ROCHELLE—Police were called to the Elzie Cooper residence, 555 S. Main St., to investigate a burglary which is believed to have occurred there April 10.

Missing are four handguns valued at $550. Included in the missing weapons are three .38-caliber pistols and a .32-caliber gun.

Police have found no signs of forcible entry to the home. Each gun was removed from a holster, investigators said.

Treated after car mishap

A Polo girl was treated and released from KSB Hospital following a one-car accident north of Polo Monday morning. Sally A. Byrd, 18, Polo, was northbound on Ill. 26, two miles north of Polo when she lost control of her car. The vehicle left the road and overturned in a ditch.

Ford trailing Reagan in Texas, says Connally

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is trailing Ronald Reagan in their contest for Texas' delegates to the Republican National Convention, former Texas Gov. John Connally feels.

But Connally told reporters at a GOP fund-raiser in Austin, Tex., Monday night that the vote could swing either way in the closing days before Texas' May 1 primary.

If 10 per cent of Texas' Republicans change their minds in the last three days, it could alter the outcome, predicted Connally, who also promised to tell Texans before May 1 why he has remained neutral. His influence, Connally said, has been "grossly exaggerated."

Local and state GOP officials honored Connally at a $50-a-plate dinner. The former Democrat told the crowd of 500 that he felt like former President Nixon must have felt when he got off the plane recently in Peking — "It's nice to be back among friends."

President Ford told a group of newspaper editors in the White House Monday that Reagan was "absolutely irresponsible" for advocating an end to the current Panama Canal negotiations.

There was no immediate response from Reagan, who did not campaign Monday. Reagan, who has been hammering away against Ford's defense policies, has charged that the negotiations will lead to a surrender of America's control over the Canal Zone.

Democratic presidential candidate Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington told supporters in a Woodbridge, Conn., synagogue Monday night, "I want to see American foreign policy committed to human rights."

"I'm tired of detente without a human soul," declared Jackson. He said the United States should use trade concessions to force the Soviet Union to ease its emigration restrictions.

Jackson has Gov. Ella Grasso's backing in Connecticut's May 11 primary.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, attacked Ford Monday during a five-minute paid political broadcast on CBS. Church branded Ford as "a weak president" for pardoning former President Richard M. Nixon and for failing "to punish powerful government agencies that break the law and bully the people."

Church headed the Senate intelligence committee's recent CIA probe.

Church also denied in a Boise, Idaho, appearance that he was in the race to secure a nomination as vice president or secretary of state, or as a buildup for a full fledged campaign in 1980.

Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, who lost a close race to Democratic front-runner Jimmy Carter in Wisconsin earlier this month, promised supporters he will win his first primary in his home state Saturday. Udall says he will win at least 15 of the 25 delegates at stake.

The Supreme Court on Monday declined to hear Udall's appeal of a ruling that will keep him off the ballot in Indiana's May 4 primary.

Carter received $108,000 from his national finance committee in Atlanta Monday, and he exhorted it to keep the money coming in. He said he needs funds for broadcast ads in Pennsylvania, where all the politicians are "lined up against me."

Ford's wife, Betty, was grand marshal of the Fiesta River Parade in San Antonio, Tex.

Supreme Court upholds housing decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal courts may require subsidized low-rent housing projects to be located in predominantly white suburbs to avoid having them concentrated in black ghettos, the Supreme Court ruled today.

In an eight-to-zero decision, the court upheld a ruling of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago ordering a lower federal court to consider a plan of "metropolitan relief" to desegregate public housing in the Chicago area.

The controversy underlying the case became an issue in the current presidential campaign when former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter said in an April 2 interview that he saw "nothing wrong with ethnic purity being maintained" in neighborhoods. Carter also said he would not permit discrimination. He later apologized for use of the words "ethnic purity."

The Supreme Court ruled in 1974 that courts may not disregard district lines in attempting to desegregate schools by drawing up plans which embrace the suburbs as well as the city.

In today's decision, the court said that this ruling does not apply in the housing situation.

In an opinion by Justice Potter Stewart, the court said the school decision was based on "the limits on the federal judicial power to interfere with the operation of state political entities that were not implicated in unconstitutional conduct."

Court said metropolitan plan for Chicago would "not necessarily entail coercion of uninvolved governmental units" because both the Chicago Housing Authority and the Department of Housing and Urban Development have authority to operate outside the Chicago city limits.

The court said that HUD could be ordered to locate public housing in the suburbs because past actions of the federal agency had contributed to its concentration in the black areas of the inner city.

"The remedial decree would neither force suburban governments to submit public housing proposals to HUD nor displace the rights and powers accorded local government entities under federal or state housing statutes or existing land use laws," the court said.

Stewart said the court's decision "should not be interpreted as requiring a metropolitan area order." The nature of the final order will be up to the federal court in Chicago.

The court heard arguments on the case Jan. 20. Justice John Paul Stevens, a former member of the Circuit Court in Chicago, did not vote on the case.

Justices Thurgood Marshall, William J. Brennan Jr. and Byron R. White, who dissented from the 1974 decision in the cross-district school busing case, concurred in today's ruling in a separate opinion in which they repeated that they still think the busing case was wrongly decided.

Compromise decision

SVC Board to demote, not terminate, Paulsen

By LENNY INGRASSIA
Duane Paulsen was relieved of his administrative duties as director of the Learning Resource Center by members of the Sauk Valley College Board Monday night, but allowed to remain on the college staff.

The compromise decision was reached following 17 hours of public hearings delving into the college president's recommendation to fire Paulsen, based on three charges.

In announcing the decision, Ronald Coplan, Morrison, board chairman, said "the evidence is insufficient" to prove two of the charges, namely, willful and continuous neglect of duties, and unjustifiable insubordination. The remaining charge, inadequate performance of duties, which the board allowed, "should not be the basis for termination," Coplan read from a prepared statement. The statement went on to say "Paulsen has shown a lack of initiative, cooperation and responsiveness; characteristics which are imperative as an administrator."

College President Dr. George E. Cole was directed to relieve Paulsen of his duties before June 30 and reassign him to other duties within the college. The effect of the decision will reduce Paulsen's $21,800 salary, which he receives on a 12-month contract, to a point to be established by Cole.

The president can recommend a salary between $12,150, the base salary for an assistant professor, to $20,225, the top pay for an associate professor. Following the meeting, Paulsen said he is qualified for the higher figure. Cole said he will recommend a salary and position for Paulsen at the next board meeting.

DUANE PAULSEN

meeting scheduled Monday. After hearing the decision of the board, Paulsen, an eight-year veteran at the college, said he will consult with his attorney concerning any further action.

Asked for his reaction to the board verdict, Cole said he felt it was a fair decision. He added "We felt we had a better case than came out in the hearings."

Cole did not indicate what position he will recommend for Paulsen, saying only he wanted to discuss the alternatives with him (Paulsen) before announcing his intentions. One possibility is to place Paulsen as a full-time librarian.

Under Cole's proposed reorganization plan, the duties of the Learning Resource Center director are expanded to include supervision of the reading center. Board action on the proposal is expected at the Monday meeting.

The regular board agenda was postponed following the seating of Juanita Prescott, Sterling, who was a successful candidate against William Judd, Chadwick, for one of two three-year terms on the board. Coplan won re-election to the board and was unanimously elected as chairman for the third consecutive term.

Robert Wolfe, Sterling, was elected vice chairman replacing William Reagle, Dixon, and Arman Gaulrapp, Rock Falls, was re-elected as secretary to the board.

Coplan's election as chairman came despite his own wishes to bow out of the position. "I think it best I not serve as chairman—it avoids the reliance on one personality," he said in asking his nomination be withdrawn. Board members persisted and nominations for the office were closed.

Courts overlook child abuse

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON (NEA)—There are ways to abuse children other than hitting them. And, astonishingly, they are often quite legal.

One of the best-worse ways is illustrated in the recent report that Pittsburgh millionaire Seward Prosser Mellon hired agents to kidnap his two daughters from his former wife. Had Mellon contracted to steal the woman's television set, he'd have been cold guilty of several crimes. But the taking of children in this kind of case is a mere misdemeanor, if it is anything at all, and so the paternalistic Mellon has little worry of paying dearly for his excess.

Actually, there are extenuating circumstances regarding the Mellon caper. According to accounts pieced together by investigating police, Mellon's goons may have impersonated FBI officers during the abduction. Now that's serious. Kidnapping kids is one thing, but thou shalt not use the name of the FBI in vain. The penalty is not less than 20 years reading the thoughts of J. Edgar Hoover.

The point here is more than just ironic. There are now about one million American divorces a year (vs. 2.5 million marriages, but just wait) and in those majority of cases where children are involved the tykes have no legal standing. They are in the eyes of the law little more than chattel, and many times actually less than that. While the grownups fight, kids play with their blocks awaiting their fate. Some faceless jurist, who doesn't give much of a fig in any event, decides how all the family pieces will be picked up.

And really, even the judges' commands may mean nothing to the tads. Daddy may decide that mommy can go fish for her alimony. Mommy may show daddy a thing or two by denying him his pathetic visiting rights. And either of the noble parents, like Mellon, may just snatch the kids away from it all and disappear. There are children today living in exile with mommas who are whores or pappas who are holding them in seizure so that an ex-wife will grow old worrying.

As to the snatching part of all this, the nation seems not to care enough to even record most of the instances. Since police normally view child snatching as "a family dispute," like when father spends his paycheck on 100 cases of Coors, there are few hard statistics. A Washington group called Children's Rights guesses that 30,000 to 50,000 kids are snatched by parents annually. In sum, we know more about the location of our bald eagles than our children.

It is known that the business is increasingly nasty. Arnold I. Miller of Children's Rights tells of parents who warn their abducted kids: "If you tell anybody about this, the Indians will get you." And it is known that a kind of child-snatching industry has formed in recent years, peopled by lowlies who hire out as nabbers. One nabber in Florida, who fancies himself as "The World's Champion Child Snatcher," is now in jail for spraying Mace in a mother's eyes.

None of this could happen, of course, in a nation that truly cared about its babies. Yet our love-hate relationship with our kids not only allows the abuse, but legally guarantees it. When the laws against kidnapping were written in the 1930s, exceptions were added "in the case of a minor by a parent thereof." Hence when divorced parents become frustrated over child custody confusions, their lawyers are duty bound to remind them of the ultimate alternative. If a parent does not get custody in one state, he or she may grab the kids and shop somewhere else for a more sympathetic judge.

A partial solution to this perversion, interestingly, is sitting now in Congress in the form of a bill by Rep. Charles Bennett (D-Fla.). It would strike the exemption clause from the kidnapping statute for parents who steal children and then conceal them. At the same time it would rightly recognize that a parental child-snatcher is not a normal thief, and deal with him or her accordingly (less severely).

The bill is going nowhere, however. Congress has more important things to tend to than abused children. Thus until it sees the light, any kid caught up in a divorce will have to continue trusting mom, trusting dad, trusting the judge—and keep a bag packed under the bed.

A little light on the subject

The Sonnenfeldt story

By JOHN F. McMANUS
BELMONT, Mass.— Helmut Sonnenfeldt's name has been in the news lately because of remarks he made in London last December. Speaking to a group of U.S. Ambassadors, this top aide of Henry Kissinger stated that America's interests would be best served if we encouraged the Communist-dominated nations of Eastern Europe to give up any hope of real national sovereignty and to accept permanently their status as Soviet satellites. Such an arrangement, claimed Mr. Sonnenfeldt, would lessen the potential for World War III.

The justifiable fuss about Sonnenfeldt's remarks is nevertheless mystifying in light of President Ford's endorsement of virtually the same position at Helsinki last July. By signing the European security pact there, the President put a U.S. stamp of approval on all Communist gains in Europe since World War II. Yet now he seems anxious to dissociate himself from the Sonnenfeldt statement. Why have so few reminded him of his own massive sellout?

Apart from this double betrayal, however, Helmut Sonnenfeldt's holding of a high post in the State Department should be an issue all by itself. In 1973, he was nominated to become Undersecretary of the Treasury, a post requiring Senate confirmation. During the confirmation hearings, three of his former State Department associates testified that he had engaged in unauthorized leaking of classified information to the press, that he had provided highly classified information to agents of a foreign power, and that he had even attempted to influence the 1960 presidential election by giving classified information to the Democrats.

The testimony was provided by John D. Hemenway, Stephan Kozak, and Otto Otepka. Two of these gentlemen had worked alongside Sonnenfeldt in the State Department.

Mr. Otepka is the former Chief of Security Evaluation in the State Department. The three suggested the names of 15 others who they insisted could corroborate their charges. The 15 were never called and Sonnenfeldt repeatedly denied all the charges. The FBI received all the information and conducted its own investigation. But, characteristically, the Justice Department took no action whatsoever.

During his testimony, John Hemenway pointed out that the transfer of classified information to agents of a foreign government is espionage. All three of Sonnenfeldt's accusers charged him with perjury before the Senate Committee. And additional testimony brought to light Sonnenfeldt's role in undercutting our nation's financial policies in Germany, as well as his key role in the disastrous Soviet wheat deal of 1973. Hemenway summarized all of these charges by insisting that Sonnenfeldt's judgment is faulty, his integrity is questionable, and his conduct has included repeated violations of his oath of office.

How then did Helmut Sonnenfeldt get where he is today? A high-level fast shuffle, that's how. Seven months after his nomination to the Treasury post, his name was abruptly withdrawn. Then, in December, 1973, he was quickly renominated to the position of Counselor of the State Department. Before many realized what was happening, the Senate confirmed his new nomination by voice vote in the pre-Christmas rush to adjourn. One Senator said that the word had been passed: "Henry Kissinger wants him."

We imagine that there are millions suffering under Communism in Eastern Europe who would agree with us that the removal from their posts of both Helmut Sonnenfeldt and his patron, Henry Kissinger, would be a big plus for the United States and for all mankind.

Looking at the wrong horses

By RAY CROMELY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Politically, a lot of us have been looking at the wrong horses.

We've been analyzing each presidential candidate—warts and all—and each of their promises. We should be looking more seriously at who we're going to elect to the Senate and House of Representatives.

Most presidential candidates are promising change. But most presidents who have attempted change have been hamstrung by Congress, except in times of war or the Great Depression.

Jimmy Carter makes much ado about how many duplicating and overlying layers of bureaucracy he would eliminate. George Wallace makes equally "cutting" statements about the bureaucrats who run the federal government, often with little control from the White House.

President Nixon, whatever his other weaknesses, developed and presented to Congress some of the most revolutionary proposals for cutting the size of the federal government we'd seen in many years.

Mr. Nixon's program for shifting and combining departments and bureaus made anything Carter and other presidential candidates proposed, seem lame in comparison. The Nixon proposals are filed away in the cabinets of Congressional committees. The Senate and House neither adopted the Nixon concepts nor came up with agreed-on counter-legislation.

Even when Congress has voted decentralization programs, the end result seems to be a heavier concentration of federal bureaucracy, not a reduction.

There was talk a while back of the new federalism. Revenue sharing was intended to shift a hefty portion of what's funded in Washington back to the states. A chunk of money was voted. But the federal bureaucracy proceeded to expand, in major areas, the decentralization it was supposed to affect.

This federal expansion, of course, was approved by Congress.

Carter and some fellow candidates have also talked of zero budgeting, looking at every federal program and agency from scratch each year.

It is well in this respect to remember that a number of presidents, including Mr. Ford and Mrs. Nixon, have sent the Senate and House long lists of programs and agencies that no longer serve a useful purpose. Mr. Nixon and Mr. Ford might have saved everyone a lot of bother by forgetting the exercise before it was started.

The number of agencies, programs and functions cut was so small it's hard to track.

One agency head testified that he had nothing to do for years except amuse himself. His staff members were busy only when they could find personal errands to occupy themselves. He was successful, as I recall, in getting his agency abolished; but it took a great deal of personal effort on his part.

We've seen what's happened to energy. The President has a program. Numerous senators and representatives have theirs, but not Congress.

Having failed in welfare, domestic economics and assorted programs, Congress is now moving energetically into foreign affairs. In a negative way. Congress has come up with obstacles on a series of presidential proposals—on Angola, on actions in Southeast Asia and on trade agreements with the Soviet Union. Checks on a president are a good thing but negative blocks with no positive set of similar programs leave a president rudderless.

In times of great depression, as in the Franklin Roosevelt era, a charismatic president can carry Congress along for awhile—but study sometimes the number of Roosevelt vetoes.

Welfare system, most-pressing problem, ignored as campaign issue

By LEONARD M. GREENE

The issue making the hottest headlines in 1975 is virtually ignored in the election campaigning of 1976.

Although a principal cause of the financial crisis that hit both New York City and State, as well as other urbanized centers, the issue of welfare reform is largely submerged in the current presidential campaign.

Despite obvious efforts of candidates to avoid what they apparently consider a "no win" issue, many Americans apparently feel a solution can't wait until after the elections.

Governors Brendan Byrne of New Jersey, Hugh Carey of New York, Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin and Milton Schapp of Pennsylvania recently sent a telegram to President Ford warning: "The harm done by the (welfare) system has been well documented. It tolerates unacceptable variations between different parts of the country which cannot be explained by regional differences in the cost of living.

"It encourages family instability and disintegration. It does too little to help the working poor. It permits excessive levels of ineligibility and fraud. It is unworkable for the family in need and is fast becoming too costly for the taxpayer."

Former HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger has warned that, at current growth rates, government welfare will consume more than half our gross national product by the year 2000, with half the American people working to support the other half.

Think of the impact of such government spending on monetary values, capital formation, scientific and technological progress, our overall living standards, and our international political and military posture. There is little hope our intellectual, religious and economic liberties could be maintained.

The economic and social disutility of this system already is staggering. A vanguard of 160,000 unproductive welfare bureaucrats administers billions of unearned dollars to growing millions of Americans. Add the inflationary impact of deficit financing, the expansion of bureaucratic power and the way in which welfare red tape, inequities, and restrictions encourage abuse and corruption and one sees the grave risks to our economic and social fabric.

For years, welfare critics were ignored. Increasingly, however, distinguished liberals and conservatives alike are advocating some form of income maintenance or supplement. Its purpose would be to stimulate individual initiative and encourage millions to assume creative roles in our economy.

The Institute for Socioeconomic Studies has been studying the feasibility of "cashing out" the welfare system as we know it. All present programs would be consolidated in favor of a federal income maintenance policy.

The idea is to provide subsistence income as a foundation on which a family can build. Today, a job or raise for a poor welfare family often imposes economic penalties. Too often earned increases in income cancel out such benefits as Food Stamps, Medicaid and housing and cut cash assistance such as

Aid For Dependent Children.

Under such pressure, poor families avoid earned income in favor of government largesse.

The work ethic would be strengthened by positive help to the near-poor. The income supplement would substantially increase their standard of living and put a distinct margin between them and families that do not work. Today there often is no difference in income between non-workers on welfare and unsubsidized, working families.

Of course, the income supplement, subject to the progressive income tax, will be recouped from topmost income strata.

Economist Milton Friedman has long urged replacing the dole with taxable income maintenance as the basis of our welfare system. Editorials sympathetic to the concept have appeared in publications ranging from Forbes Magazine to the New York Times.

Former Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, the Michigan Democrat who was long Congress's resident expert on welfare reform, pioneered legislation that would cash out the present welter of benefits programs.

In recent weeks, Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits has brought the Griffiths proposal to the Senate as the "Tax Credits and Allowances Act of 1976." According to the Senator, "This bill is designed to provide a system of repayable tax

How weather affects corn yields

If there's one thing most corn growers can agree on—it's the weather. Few will question its tremendous effect on crop profits.

In spite of the great influence weather has on yields, there are ways you can modify its effects.

And top corn-growers can do just that, according to Wayne Fowler, director of agronomic education, DeKalb AgResearch, Inc., DeKalb, Illinois. He recommends using cultural practices to make full use of sunlight, rain and warm temperatures in their fields.

"Weather control" starts with selecting corn hybrids that fit your cropping program and growing conditions.

Scientists say corn is most sensitive to weather from six weeks before silking to three weeks after. What happens during this period largely determines what yields will be in the fall. Potential yields of 150 bushels per acre can be drastically reduced by drought and high temperatures during this critical period of plant growth.

That's why Fowler suggests planting hybrids with a range of maturities in order to reduce risk of stress during this weather-sensitive period.

"Planting more than one hybrid number can reduce risk of losses from disease and insects which vary with weather conditions," he says.

"Since full-season hybrids often yield better, you'll want to plant a part of your acreage to a full-season number. But if you plant large acreages, consider medium and short season numbers, too.

"Besides minimizing harmful weather effects, an early hybrid can spread your planting and harvest workload."

Some top growers prefer to plant hybrids in order of increasing maturity. But Fowler recommends planting full-season corn first on about 25 per cent of your acreage, medium maturity on about half of your acreage. Plant short season hybrids last.

Here's another tip: If planting a full-season hybrid is delayed too long, it's best to switch back to an earlier hybrid. "A good early hybrid planted late usually yields more than a late-maturing hybrid planted late," Fowler says.

Hedge Against Stress
Fowler suggests several other ways to hedge your corn crop against weather stress periods:

—Plant early.
—Plant hybrids of varying maturities.

—Plant full-season hybrids first.

—Match plant population to hybrid, moisture supply and fertility levels.

—Consider narrow rows to allow for earlier shading, cooler soil, less evaporation.

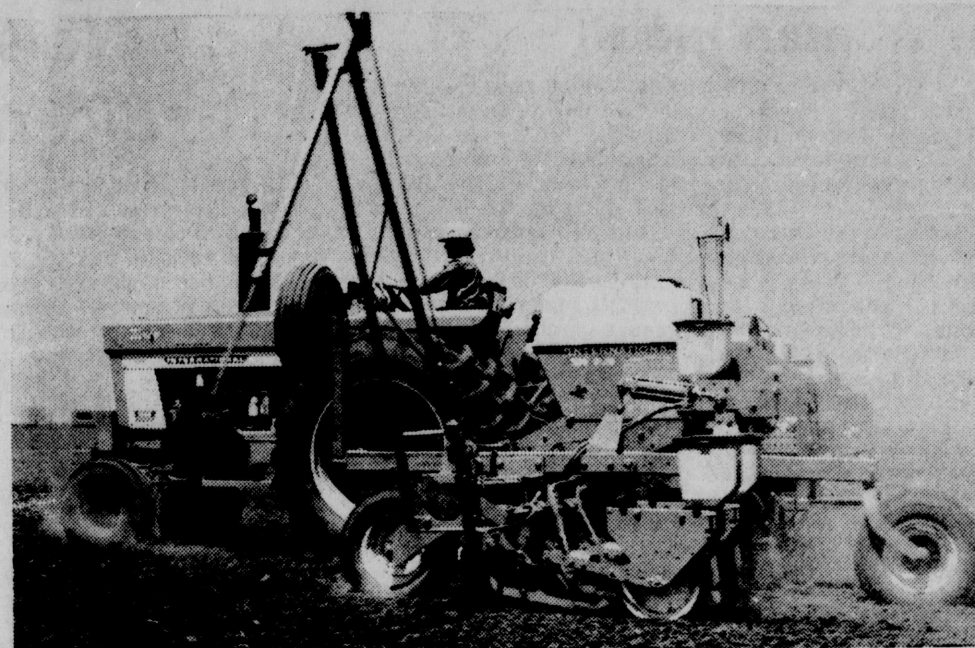

—Use plenty of fertilizer.

—Maintain good soil tilth and texture to help increase water intake and reduce runoff.

Break up crusts. Avoid overworking. Use conservation practices.

—Control weeds and insects.

—Consider early harvest when corn is at 25 to 27 per cent moisture content. You may be able to reduce field losses in order to more than offset drying costs.

Time is precious to area farmers who battle to plant their crop early. That's the easiest way for a bigger yield potential at harvest, according to seed-corn experts.

Too early to plant?

Favorable fall and spring weather has enabled many farmers to get far ahead with their field work, and they are wondering how soon to start planting corn. One useful guide in deciding whether to plant in April is the soil temperature, says M. T. Barlass, Lee County Extension Adviser.

Here are two guides that can be followed:

—Plant when temperature at 7 a.m. reaches 50 degrees Fahrenheit at the two-inch level. This will assure a temperature favorable for growth during most of a 24-hour period if there is an appreciable amount of sunshine.

—Plant when the temperature at 1 p.m., reaches 55 degrees Fahrenheit at the four-inch level.

"Planting more than one hybrid number can reduce risk of losses from disease and insects which vary with weather conditions," says one seed expert.

Warning issued on herbicide sellers

OREGON—During the past month or so a number of telephone calls have been received by Ogle County farmers to purchase "low priced" miracle herbicides.

Farmers should beware of telephone herbicide salesmen who like weeds, keep popping up every spring, says Stan Eden, Ogle County Extension Adviser.

Cow-calf seminar starts in May

MALTA—A Cow-Calf Management Seminar will be presented at Kishwaukee College, May 19-June 3.

Veterinarians Dr. David Madsen and Dr. Chester Palmer will be the instructors for the evening classes which will meet Wednesdays and Thursdays for three weeks.

The seminar topics include selection, genetics and heredity, reproductive diseases, diseases of gestation, diseases of calving time, calfhood diseases, feeding, facilities, parasites, and handling and housing.

The course will be taught from the preventive viewpoint.

For further information about the seminar, contact the agriculture division at Kishwaukee College, 825-2086.

Migrant program scheduled here

Each spring Spanish-speaking migrant families from the southwestern United States flow into the Ashton and Steward areas to help with harvesting of asparagus. For the past eight years a short-term 4-H program has been offered the girls. This program is planned, conducted and supported by volunteers throughout Lee County.

A planning meeting for the 1976 migrant 4-H program is set for April 27 at the Lee County Extension Office in Amboy. All interested persons are invited to attend.

4-H project areas available for the girls to choose from have been Foods & Nutrition, Clothing and Crafts. The program usually runs from mid-May through June. Anyone willing to help with this special 4-H program by providing project supplies, transportation or monetary donations should call the Lee County Extension Office in Amboy, 857-3525.

Dr. M. D. McGlamery, University of Illinois Extension Weed Science Specialist says that one of the herbicides is being sold under many trade names and by different manufacturers.

The composition is about 88 per cent petroleum distillate, one per cent 2,4-D, one per cent pentachlorophenol and 0.6 per cent bromacil. This is being offered at the "barbain" price of $15 per gallon to be used at the rate of one to two gallons per 1,000 square feet or 44 to 88 gallons per acre.

"Not a bad price for fuel oil," says McGlamery.

A "bargain" is not a bargain unless you can use it, he points out. Ask for a statement of contents and get a written statement of promises.

If you think that fraudulent advertising is involved, McGlamery suggests contacting the Consumer Affairs Division of the Attorney General's Office in Springfield. Also, contact your local Better Business Bureau and protective organizations.

Several detergents, surfactants, or adjuvants are also being advertised for use with soil-applied herbicides, says McGlamery. According to the manufacturers, their use will make herbicides last longer, make them work with less water, and help them penetrate soils better.

Surfactants may decrease crop tolerance to herbicides, says McGlamery. And improved performance as a result of their use with soil-applied herbicides (preplant or preemergence) has not been proven.

Sewing clinic is cancelled

The Sewing Machine Clinic sponsored by the Lee County Cooperative Extension Service, scheduled for Thursday, has been cancelled. The clinic was to be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Extension Office, Amboy, and at 7:30 p.m. in the Loveland Community Building, Dixon.

Plans are being made to reschedule the Sewing Machine Clinic and a new date will be announced later.

Progress Days '76 plans are forming

SUBLETTE — Sublette's Christmas lights have been left up on Main Street and the multicolored bulbs have been replaced with red, white and blue bulbs for the bicentennial. The lights will be lit each week-end until the Progress Days '76 Celebration to give the village a festive look.

Plans are also underway for Bicentennial decorations to be placed on the light poles in the business district.

The Progress Days '76 parade committee announced this week that they are receiving parade entries at a very good rate. Presently they have received nearly 70 entries, including bands, antique autos, floats and marching units.

The committee hopes that the parade will be the largest ever staged in the village. Anyone wishing to enter the parade planned for Sunday afternoon, June 20 is urged to contact Robert Jones, Larry Leffelman or Don Dinges, to register.

Willing Workers meet

The April meeting of the South Dixon Willing Workers was held at Robin Rick's home. A card party and share-the-fun committees were discussed.

Reports of the federation meeting, baking, cooking, and sewing workshops were given. Demonstrations on ceramics, baby-sitting, and read-a-book were also presented.

A tumble routine was given by Jan and Lisa Harrison.

The May meeting will be held at the Loveland Community Building.

Applications sought for Beef Queen

OREGON — The Beef Queen contest chairman Mrs. Larry Slager, Polo of the Ogle County Beef Auxiliary announces applications are now being accepted for the 1976 Ogle County Beef Queen contest to be held in June.

Contestants must be at least a senior in high school and have an active interest in the beef industry.

Information and applications can be obtained by calling, or, writing to the Contest Chairman, Mrs. Larry Slager, Polo, or, the Cooperative Extension Office, Box 99, Pines Road, Oregon or phone 732-2191.

The Ogle County Livestock Feeders and Beef Auxiliary are sponsoring a banquet during which the contest will be held. Tickets will be available to the public.

Officers elected

The new Downing Duckling 4-H Club recently elected officers. They include: John Cephas Jr., president; Keith Edwards, vice president; Kathy Edwards, secretary; and Brenda LeBlanc, treasurer.

The next meeting will be April 25 at the Second Baptist Church. Anyone interested may join.

The club's leader is Mrs. Shirley Edward, who may be contacted for further information at 288-2409.

Pictures for time capsules

ASHTON — On Thursday at 7 p.m., all veterans of Ashton of all wars and members of the American Legion are to appear at the Mills and Petrie Building for picture taking.

These pictures are to be placed in a time capsule and buried during the Ashton Bicentennial celebration. The instructions will be to disclose the capsule within 50 years. Mrs. Don Grewe is in charge of this project.

Nelson school gives Bicentennial program

NELSON — The Nelson Grade School presented a Bicentennial program last Tuesday at the school auditorium. A large number of parents and friends were present.

Each grade was responsible for a part of the program and were assisted by Mrs. Donna Koesler, music teacher. The kindergarten, first and second grades, sang and marched to the tune of "Yankee Doodle," and sang "America." The first and second grade also did a choral reading, "My Country."

The third and fourth grades sang "This Land is Your Land." The third grade play was entitled "On the Trail," and the fourth grade play, "Attack on Fort Ticonderoga."

The fifth and sixth grades' play was "1775," and a story from 1975 Newberry Honor Book, "My Brother Sam is Dead," by Collier. The seventh and eighth grades sang "Fifty Nifties."

The entire school presented the finale, "America the Beautiful."

In art classes, each grade had a bicentennial project such as making flags, posters, Bicentennial rice designs and colonial hats. Many of the children, teachers and friends were dressed in Bicentennial costumes. Local townspeople and the students displayed many of their antiques of a century ago.

Ashton music gets top rating

ASHTON — The Ashton High School chorus received a first place or superior rating at the State Music Contest held at DeKalb recently.

The A.H.S. Band won a second or excellent rating. Both organizations are under the music director of the school, Larry Palmer.

Miss Ulferts weds John Sloter

Chrysanthemums, daisies and ivory pew bows decorated the Amboy Immanuel Lutheran Church for the Feb. 21 wedding of Miss Gretchen Ulferts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Ulferts, Dixon, and John Sloter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sloter, Dixon.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. George Baseler, Amboy, organist, and Skip Jones, Dixon, vocalist. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. George Baseler.

The bride, given away by her father, was attired in her mother's wedding gown, which had been seen by the bride's grandmother. The dress, an ivory moire taffeta with fitted bodice, had leg-o-mutton sleeves and a queen victorian collar. A tier of white roses held the headdress in place and the bride carried a bouquet of cascading white roses, sweet-heart roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Sandra Eykamp, Dixon, was matron of honor, while bridesmaids were Mrs. Greg Heather, Mrs. Monty Cotter and Mrs. Rober Thrasher, all of Dixon. The attendants wore identical forest green dresses trimmed with ivory lace. Stand-up collars and long puffed sleeves banded in ivory lace accented the dresses. Each attendant carried a single white rose.

Best man was Warren Engle, Dixon, while groomsmen were Harry Metzen, Morris, Harley Black, Rockford and Daryl Stuckemeyer, Amboy, all brothers-in-law of the groom. Harry D. Ulferts and Lawrence O. Ulferts, both of Dixon, brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

Miss Anita Metzen, Morris, niece of the bridegroom, the flower girl, was attired in a dress which matched the attendants'. She carried an ivory basket filled with white rose petals.

The rinbearer, Billy May Jr., Sheboygan, Wis., nephew of the bridegroom, wore a dark green tuxedo identical to those of the groomsmen and carried a white satin pillow.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Elks Club. Ivory wedding bells hung above the serving table, which held a five-tiered wedding cake decorated with cascading ivory roses and flanked on either side by a single candle. Miss Peg Sloter, sister of the bridegroom, served punch, while Miss Diane Cordell served coffee and Miss LaChele Burdick, Polo and Mrs. John Sieberns, Dixon, cut and served the cake.

The couple went on a weekend wedding trip before returning to their home at 508 Nachusa Ave.

The new Mrs. Sloter is a 1974 graduate of DHS. The bridegroom was graduated in 1965 and attended Sauk Valley College after serving two years in the army. He is presently employed by his parents, who operate the Victory Cafe and the Shell Gas Station.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN SLOTER

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Wishing Information" sent me running to my typewriter. I am a high school senior who wants you to know that almost every bit of valid information I learned about sex came from your column.

My parents never told me one thing. The stuff I learned from the kids at school was mostly wrong or so half-baked you wouldn't believe it. Here are some so-called "facts" I picked up in junior high as well as high school. (Mind you, these kids are from 13 to 18 years of age):

1. A girl can get pregnant on any one day out of every month.
2. The first time a couple has sex the girl can get pregnant but she is safe the second or third time the same day or evening.
3. It is not possible to get VD more than once. The medication that cures VD gets into the system and makes you immune for life.

4. If a girl does not have a climax she will not get pregnant.
5. It is not necessary to take the Pill regularly. If a girl takes it just before she has intercourse she is safe for 24 hours.
6. If a pregnant girl eats a lemon every day for two weeks, she will have a miscarriage.

I hope you will publish my letter. Some teen-agers will laugh at it but you'd be surprised how many kids actually believe this junk. They are desperate for information. So please hang in there, Ann.—True Blue Fan

Dear True: I plan to. In the meantime, we need a first-rate sex-education program in public schools—taught by competent instructors who know how to present the facts in a straight-forward but dignified, non-clinical manner.

Dear Ann Landers: I have this friend who makes me so mad I actually get heartburn. Bernice is quite deaf and wears a hearing aid. She loves to argue. When Bernice realizes she is losing an argument she turns off her hearing aid and says, "Shut up, I can't hear you." This drives me up the wall. How can I cope?—Bicarb In Bay City

Dear Bicarb: Fight fire with fire. When Bernice begins to get huffy, stop talking. Just move your lips. She'll think her hearing aid has gone kaploey and while she is trying to adjust it, speak your piece.

Dear Ann Landers: How much is a man supposed to take? We have been married 10 years and have two children, 8 and 3 years of age.

We have a lovely home but it always looks like a pigpen. I'm ashamed to have people over. She can never get it all together. Although our grocery bills are sky high we seem to be eating garbage. Everything is either overcooked or underdone. I always put the children to bed, otherwise they would walk around till midnight. My wife is in the kitchen doing dishes until 10:30 p.m.

Most of the laundry is sent out and a cleaning woman comes in once a month. What my wife does all day I can't imagine.

Do you think things would be better if she took a job outside the home and we hired a housekeeper? I'd like your opinion.—Fed Up

Dear Fed: Does your wife want to work outside the home? You give me no clue whatever as to what her wishes are. Obviously she is a very poor housekeeper and you are not happy with the state of your marriage.

It's a safe bet she isn't happy either. I suggest joint counseling. The solution may be a part-time job and a part-time housekeeper—who can cook.

Some findings on marriage

NEW YORK (AP)—Will women exercise their traditional right to propose to men in this Leap Year?

No matter who does the asking, marriage is still a going proposition, contrary to some opinion. Last year some two million marriages took place, though many of these were remarriages—about three in ten in a recent year.

Whether it's the man or woman who pops the question, married women's lifespans are longer than unwed women's, according to government statistics.

Women who marry are also often more affluent if they have a career, and if they don't make it on their own their husbands often do. A University of Michigan study found that marriage practically triples chances of career success for men.

Beside living longer and in greater affluence, married women often also have better protection for the future, says the Institute of Life Insurance. The average size of an "ordinary" (most commonly purchased) life insurance policy bought in 1974 by a married person was $21,390, nearly twice as much as that purchased by a single person.

And according to a University of Michigan study, married people in the 45-and-over age group were five times more content in their jobs than the unmarried workers.

If all that isn't enough, marriage may keep a man out of jail. According to sociologist Jessie Bernard, males who remain single are more apt to get involved in criminal activities.

So-called 'facts' about sex

Vegetable hot sauce has variety of uses

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Before our Jane Street community garden in New York City was so willfully devastated, one of the most dedicated workers in it was Annette Gilpin, a young woman who grew up in Arizona. Although Annette helped tend the trees, shrubs, flowers and herbs in the garden she took particular care of some stray green peppers in the herb bed. No one could understand her devotion to them!

Then when harvest time came she carried off a few of the peppers in triumph and announced that she was going to use them in a specialty of her Grandfather Barney's so we could taste "a real Arizona hot sauce." Although Annette's sauce is different from her grandfather's—all the vegetables in his were fresh from his garden—it was voted super by its recipients. Her version is for all seasons and especially for urbanites.

Because Annette leads a busy life as director of volunteer workers at a large hospital, she likes to entertain informally. She usually has her sauce on hand to use the following ways:

1. As a topping for hamburgers on toasted English muffins. With the addition of the muffins and the sauce, the hamburgers are special.
2. As a topping for eggs scrambled with cheese.
3. As a topping for grilled cheese sandwiches.
4. As a stuffing for tacos along with beef, cheese and shredded lettuce.
5. As a stuffing for tomatoes and eggplant topped with cheese and baked.

6. As an addition to pinto beans.

ANNETTE GILPIN'S ALL-PURPOSE HOT SAUCE
1 tablespoon corn oil
1 large onion, chopped medium-fine (1 cup)
½ chopped (medium-fine) green pepper
Garlic clove, minced
7-ounce can whole-kernel corn, drained
16-ounce can tomatoes, drained and chopped
4-ounce can roasted peeled green chilies, undrained

(chopped fine with seeds included)

- ½ cup small pitted ripe olives, if desired
  - 3 tablespoons hot chili sauce, from an 8-ounce jar
  - 1 tablespoon chili powder
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1 teaspoon pepper
- In a 10-inch skillet heat the oil. Add onion, green pepper and garlic; cook gently, stirring often, until vegetables are wilted. Add remaining ingredients and heat, stirring several times. Serve hot or cold. Store in refrigerator. Makes about 1½ pints.

Pick the right location for plants

By JANET TARA
(Eighth of a Series)

Moving to a new location is usually hard on your plants, particularly if they make the trip in a hot, stuffy, lightless truck. If possible, don't move your plants on the same day that you move your furniture. Try to leave them with a friend before the actual moving day or bring them to the new house before the move. They can easily be damaged during all the commotion.

While a bright sunny kitchen can look like a good place to keep plants, it can also be filled with hazards and potential death for plants.

Plants don't like gas, stove heat or the extremes of heat from the stove and cold air from a winter window. The conflict is more than most plants can bear. One side dries out from the high stove heat and the other side freezes from contact with a cold window and the inevitable winter drafts. If you keep a window open in the winter to help air circulation in the kitchen, don't put any plants in front of it.

Even if your plant is away from the stove and not too close to a window, be sure not to hang it too high. Heat rises in any room, and in a kitchen there is more heat and less air circulation even with a high ceiling. Bathrooms, on the other hand, can be wonderful places to keep plants. The high humidity from showers and baths helps create ideal humidity conditions for most plants. Just make sure they get enough light if you have frosted or tinted bathroom windows.

Broccoli quiche will star at your brunch

By AILEEN CLAIRE

Brunches are a popular way to entertain well and with a limited menu. Everyone seems to enjoy this form of dining with friends or business associates, especially on a Saturday or Sunday when all want to relax. A broccoli-sausage quiche, served with a fresh spinach salad, prepared bricchos or pecan rolls and a fresh fruit compote, taxes the energy of the hosts and their guests very little. For even less work, set a buffet with colorful decorative paper plates.

BROCCOLI-SAUUSAGE QUICHE

- 2 (10-ounce) packages frozen chopped broccoli
- 4 smoke-flavored frankfurters (6 ounces)
- 6 eggs
- 2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon onion powder
- ½ cups grated Swiss or Gruyere cheese
- Pastry-lined pan

1 tablespoon butter

Cook broccoli in a small amount of boiling salted water until crisp-tender, about 5 minutes. Drain well. Slice frankfurters slightly on the diagonal. Beat eggs until blended and mix in milk, salt, onion powder, cheese and broccoli. Pour into pastry-lined pan. Arrange sausages decoratively on top. Dot with butter. Bake at 425 degrees 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375 degrees and bake 25 to 30 minutes longer, or until set and slightly puffed. Let cool a few minutes on a rack, then remove pan sides. Cut in wedges. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Pastry-lined pan: Mix together 1½ cups all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ cup butter until mixture is crumbly. Add one egg and mix until dough clings together in a ball. Pat into the bottom and sides of a 10-inch flan pan with removable bottom and two-inch sides. (Must have two-inch sides.)

By Oswald and James Jacoby

The death of John Crawford at the age of 60 deprived bridge of one of the greatest and most colorful players. He won his first national pair tournament with Oswald Jacoby in 1939 and his total of 37 national championships is second only to Jacoby's 44.

He called Oswald from Monte Carlo last summer to say he was finally playing in a tournament with Jim, the second generation, and expected some day to play with James Oswald Jr., the third generation. We regret that the third generation will never have that privilege.

Here is a hand that won an important IMP match for Johnny. His play of the jack of clubs at trick one was instantaneous and most effective. West continued the suit. John took his ace, lost the diamond finesse, but had his nine tricks.

At the other table South played low, West shifted to a heart and the defense wound up with three hearts, one club, one diamond and a plus score. 2 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Jr. Woman's club

The April meeting of the Dixon Junior Woman's Club was held recently at the home of Jeanette Brandau. The business meeting was conducted by Carol Kaiser, president.

The Bicentennial project of planting and selling trees was discussed and brochures are to be distributed by club members. Trees available are honey locust, green ash, flowering crab and pine. All trees measure six to eight feet tall and sell for $15 each. No profit will be realized by the club or local nurserymen. Anyone interested in buying one, may order now or call 652-4541 or 288-6308 before Aug. 20.

Members are to entertain the Lee County Nursing Home residents for the April Birthday party.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent finishing table decorations for the 13th District Convention to be held at the Dixon Post House, April 29.

Refreshments were served by Shirley Speer and Mickey Robbins.

Rebekah Lodge

Minnie Bell Rebekah Lodge will be host to District No. 8 Rebekah Association on Wednesday in the IOOF Hall.

Registration will start at 12:30 p.m., followed by seating of District No. 8 officers with Mrs. Leona Spencer, president, presiding. Mrs. Bernice E. Wood, Rebekah State Assembly president, Flora, and Mrs. Evelyn Schlimme, vice president, Sparta, will accompany the president. Also expected to be present are Mrs. Iva Kall, past president of the International Rebekah Assemblies; past grand masters, grand encampment officers and other dignitaries of the Rebekah and Odd Fellow orders.

A banquet will be served at the First Christian Church at 5:30 p.m., followed by the memorial services at 7 p.m. and other necessary business, followed by closing of the district meeting and final closing by Minnie Bell Rebekah Lodge.

Cinder-ellas

Let's Talk About Decorating

By KARLEEN BENSINGER

How to Buy Wood Furniture.

When buying furniture, remember to select quality pieces. Although quality furniture is more expensive than furniture that's poorly made, it will last for a much longer time. Be sure to shop carefully. Read tags, ask questions, shop around. We at Dunbar's are proud of the quality furniture we sell. We welcome you to inspect every piece before you buy.

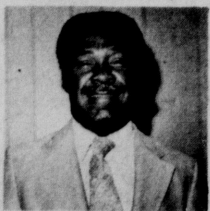

When buying a chest, check the drawers carefully. Pull them out... do they slide easily? They should have a drawer guide with nylon glides, or metal guides with roller bearings. Feel the insides of the drawers to see if they've been sanded smoothly. Drawers with rough sides will snag your clothes. Also, the insides of the drawers should be finished to prevent warping and swelling in hot weather. A dust panel between drawers is good, as it will add strength and keep out dust. Ornamentation will add to the cost of a furniture piece without adding to its quality. There may be two chests equal in quality but one will be more expensive than the other. The reason? It has fancy hardware which increases its cost. Do you have a decorating problem? Stop in today and talk with one of Dunbar's professional design consultants.

Bicentennial display in petunias

ATKINSON, Ill. (AP) — A western Illinois hog farmer is a patriot in overalls, turning his work-roughed hands to the delicate task of creating a Bicentennial display out of petunias.

"It's just a little gesture, it kind of ties in with the farm aspect of the Bicentennial," 37-year-old Vernon Moens said of the elaborate plan he's been working on for almost a year.

He's plowed up the 10-acre oat field in front of his modest frame home. The house is atop a hill at the end of a quarter-mile lane that cuts through Moens' 240 acres of rolling Henry County farmland. It's a place "with about the prettiest view anywhere in the country...and one of the best reasons for living out here in the country," Moens said.

To share that view, Moens is investing his spare time and about $15,000 to transform the field of oats into a flowery reproduction of the Betsy Ross flag.

The flag itself will cover about six acres, with red, white and blue petunias making up the 13 stars and 13 stripes. On the left of the flag, petunias will spell out "1776," and on the right, "1976."

Moens also plans to erect 50 gold-colored flag poles flying the flags of the 50 states along the south edge of the field, which borders an unnamed Cornwell Township road.

Efforts by the Henry County Bicentennial Committee, which has been assisting Moens, have met with little success, however. Only the state of Kentucky has promised to cooperate.

In the first week of May, after the last threat of frost, a truck will roll onto Moens' farm carrying 200,000 petunias from a hothouse in Michigan.

With the help of the Geneseo Boy Scouts, Atkinson Future Farmers of America and other volunteers, Moens will create the flag he first envisioned one afternoon last summer while looking out over his land.

Thrusting his hands deep into his bib overalls, Moens talked about that day.

"Well, the field was in bloom, all greens and golds you know, and we were at our neighbor's house that overlooks the field, and the wind was blowing. And you could just see it there, those oats looked just like a flag waving in the breeze," he said.

Quietly, afraid of "being taken too seriously," Moens brought up the idea with some neighbors. The response was quick and enthusiastic. "We just kind of kicked it around and it got to be a good idea," he recalled.

To help recover some of the cost, Moens is hoping to sell "square-foot deeds" of the display at a minimum of $5 each as souvenirs. "If we should raise more than we'll need it'll have to go to some kind of charity," he said.

Moens' daughter and three sons like the sudden local fame associated with their father's dream. "They just think it's gonna become an awful lot of work pulling weeds," Moens said. "And what can you say? I suppose it will."

Thought for today

Proclaim this among the nations: Prepare war, stir up the mighty men. Let all the men of war draw near, let them come up. Beat your plowshares into swords and your pruning hooks into swords; let the weak say, "I am a warrior." — Joel 3:9,10.

"There is no nation on earth so dangerous as a nation fully armed and bankrupt at home." — Henry Cabot Lodge, American statesman.

"HAVE WE NOT ALL ONE FATHER? HATH NOT ONE GOD CREATED US?"

Malachi 2:10
A lot of people acknowledge God as Father. But do they really understand the man he made?

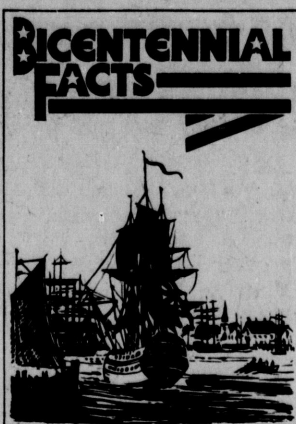

As you get a deeper understanding of the Bible, the spiritual nature of man and of all creation appears.

During the Revolutionary War, smuggling was patriotic, profitable and Americans became quite adept at it. The nation's first Secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton, prevailed upon Congress to authorize 10 armed vessels to enforce payment of customs duties on good entering American ports. On March 21, 1791, President Washington signed an order appointing Hopley Yeaton "Master of a Cutter in the Service of the United States, for Protection of the Revenue," and the Coast Guard, this country's oldest continuous sea service, The World Almanac reveals, was born.

The Doctor Says: Few answers on cerebral atrophy

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother at age 61, an intelligent, active woman, developed what was diagnosed as cerebral atrophy. Four years later she had gradually deteriorated to the point where she is a body without a mind, unable to speak or feed herself and apparently unable to recognize us. There is no family history of such an illness, so we assumed perhaps a head injury was behind it. However, another member of the family is now showing similar symptoms. Can you tell us what causes this condition?

DEAR READER — I understand thoroughly your distress. I wish there were some good answer to give you. Your mother's condition is the same as that which occurs in many older people. Whether it begins early or late the changes are approximately the same. I don't need to detail these because they are all too familiar in our society. In medical circles we call these dementia and sometimes senile dementia, although it must be stated that this condition can occur at a relatively young age, specifically in later middle age in some people. Women seem to be more susceptible to this disorder at an early age than are men.

Most of these disorders are associated with actual changes in the cells of the brain, and the condition can occur in individuals with brain injury as may be seen sometimes in boxers who had repeated excessive head injuries. The development of symptoms may be gradual or more rapid. One of the earliest signs is the diminished ability for problem solving. Individuals lose the ability to cope with new problems. Stated simply, they lose their previous capacity to learn even though they may still be able to handle old familiar tasks.

We do not know what causes this condition, but these disorders are usually included as part of the picture of aging. However, medicine has long had a tendency to classify disorders that are not well understood as aging, only to find later that they are true diseases. A good example here is the common heart attack. We now know that heart disease can begin in young men in their twenties and thus is hardly a disease of aging.

Sometimes disease of the arteries to the brain contributes to this problem. In other instances, the degeneration of the brain cells seems to be independent of disease to the arteries.

What we really need is a better understanding of the fundamental process of aging and how to prevent it.

PTO to purchase playground gear

The Grand Detour School PTO decided at its April meeting to use the proceeds from its recent fun fair to purchase more playground equipment for the school. Freddie Countryman is shown dashing across a swinging bridge, a popular piece of equipment purchased for the playground last year. This year new swings for the primary levels, soccer goals and a basketball standard will be added. New officers installed at the meeting were: president, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Simmons; vice president, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Nicklaus; secretary, Mrs. Louise Donaldson, and treasurer, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Williams. A spring picnic in May will close out PTO events for the year. (Telegraph Photo)

Suit filed over bromine leakage

CHICAGO (AP) — Last week's bromine gas leak near Dwight has prompted a suit by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott against Consolidated Freightways Corp. of Delaware. In the suit filed before the Illinois Pollution Control Board Monday, Scott contends that the trucking firm violated Illinois' environmental protection act. The suit says the firm caused air pollution through improper storage, handling or transportation of the bromine. Scott says he wants the maximum fine of $10,000 and a cease-and-desist order to force Consolidated Freightways to make what a spokesman termed significant new efforts to safeguard against leaks. Scott said the suit will force "a thorough board investigation into what caused the leak and what could have been done to prevent it."

Flamettes hold annual supper

AMBOY — Members of the Flamettes held an annual salad supper Wednesday night at the fire station with 14 members present. Mrs. Arnold Stahr and Mrs. Terry Kelley were the hostesses.

Following the meal there was a short business meeting with Carol Machen presiding. New yearbooks were distributed and plans made for the cloak room and pop stand to be held in conjunction with the firemen's dance, April 24. The annual night out will be at 6:30 p.m., May 12 at Sunset Inn. Members are to make reservations by May 10, with Janet Cassidy, Dorothy Koehler, Agnes Kellen, Marina Weidman, and Rita Spitz were appointed as the float committee to plan a bicentennial float for the parade in July.

There were games and the prizes went to Janet Cassidy, Pat Haws and Alice Austin.

Art show planned

OREGON — Plans are progressing for the Annual Spring Art Show, sponsored by the Eagle's Nest Art Group. Sitters for the show are being contacted. The public is cordially invited. Ogle County students also will be given the opportunity to show their work in conjunction with the members in the First Presbyterian Church, Oregon, to run through May 1.

The show will open April 25 from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. Refreshments will be served and Arthur Neahring, Sterling artist, will give a critique at 2:30 p.m. Show hours are from 1 to 4:30 p.m., on April 26 and 27 and closed in the evening. April 28 and 29 open from 1 to 4:30 p.m., and from 7 to 9 p.m.; April 30 and May 1 from 1 to 4:30 p.m. The Eagle's Nest Art Group, under the leadership of President Alonzo Maginnis, Rochelle, promises a fine and interesting display of artwork in varied media.

Fingers injured by power saw

NELSON — A Friday afternoon domestic accident led to a hand injury to a Nelson man. Jack Thompson, Nelson, was attempting to cut plywood with a power saw, when he accidentally slipped. Several fingers on his right hand were cut. Thompson was taken to Sterling Community General Hospital, treated and released.

Remrey had stopped for a stop sign on Lowell Park Road. As she pulled away from the sign onto Galena Avenue, her car struck the side of another car, driven south by Beverly A. Burkardt, 37, rural Polo.

No injuries were reported.

In other action the council: —Approved a resolution naming Mayor William L. Naylor, Lohse and Densmore to the Board of Local Improvements for a one-year term.

—Approved a resolution confirming the appointment of Mrs. George Holland to the Zoning Board of Appeals for a five-year term.

—Awarded to Ladd Construction Co., a contract to provide street maintenance materials on a low bid of $14,025.

—Awarded to both bidders, Kehobe Materials Inc., and Wastone Inc., contracts to provide road rock. The Kehobe bid of $975 was $1.50 per ton. Wastone bid $1.90 per ton or $1,235. Densmore explained the transportation savings by having a contractor on each side of the city made if feasible to accept both bids.

—Awarded to Ladd a contract for $74,665.15 for oil and chips for street maintenance.

Rural fire protection grants

SPRINGFIELD — Applications from communities seeking federal rural community fire protection funds are being accepted until June 1 by the Department of Conservation. Illinois was recently allotted $131,300, which will be administered on a 50-50 matching grant basis. "Illinois' allotment is fourth highest among the states," said Tony Dean, director of the Illinois Department of Conservation. "The program involves a total of $3.5 million allotted nationally for rural fire protection under the Title IV of the Rural Development Act, administered by the U.S. Forest Service."

Dean said the funds must be committed to legitimate projects by June 1 or they will be lost. He pointed out it is an economical way for communities to upgrade rural fire protection, which also aids the Department's wildfire control program.

Last year 51 fire districts were awarded grants totalling over $138,000, from more than 215 applications.

Interested community officials may gain more information, or make application, by contacting Springfield Forestry headquarters. Address is: Department of Conservation, Division of Forestry, 605 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706. Telephone number: (217) 782-2361.

Garden plots available

ROCHELLE — Community garden plots offered by the Flagg-Rochelle Community Park District on Seventh Ave., are still available. The garden spots, 40' x 30' will soon be plowed, disced and fertilized and ready for planting. To date some 76 persons have signed for garden space out of the 112 plots available. The program is sponsored by the Rochelle Men's Garden Club and the Rochelle State Bank. There is a small rental fee for each plot. Anyone wishing to raise their own fresh vegetables this summer may contact either the Rochelle State Bank or members of the Rochelle Men's Garden Club to rent a space.

Ticketed after car collision

DIXON Police charged Cheryl Remrey with failure to yield at a stop intersection after a Monday afternoon car accident.

Remrey had stopped for a stop sign on Lowell Park Road. As she pulled away from the sign onto Galena Avenue, her car struck the side of another car, driven south by Beverly A. Burkardt, 37, rural Polo.

No injuries were reported.

Deaths, Funerals

John E. Christians

MT. MORRIS — John E. Christians, 66, 409 N. Hannah St., died unexpectedly at his home Monday afternoon.

He was born May 7, 1909, at Avon, S.D., the son of Ed and Janna (Janant) Christians. He married Jennie Grace, June 28, 1934, in Springfield, S.D. He was a custodian at Kable Printing for 15 years, a member of Custodian Union Local 467, the Moose Lodge and Disciples of United Methodist Church.

Survivors include his widow; a son, Daryl, and a daughter, Cheryl, both of Mt. Morris; three grandchildren; a brother, Ed, and a sister, Mrs. Everett (Hillie) Knoll, both Avon, S.D. Memorial services will be Friday, 7:30 p.m., at the church with Rev. James Scorgie officiating. There will be no visitation. A memorial to the church has been established.

Fred E. Hess

Fred E. Hess, 61, Joliet, formerly of Dixon, died Monday in Joliet.

He was born Jan. 4, 1915, in Sterling, the son of Earl and Irene (Smith) Hess. He married Helen Page in September 1940.

Survivors include his widow; a son, Thomas; a daughter, Mrs. Janet Sheppard, and five grandchildren, all of Joliet; a sister, Mrs. Helen McCordie, Dixon; and two brothers, Paul, Dixon, and John, Polo.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at Haley's Funeral Home, Joliet, with graveside services at 12:30 p.m. Thursday at Prairieville Cemetery.

Dora Mae Maronde

Dora Mae Maronde, 86, died April 16, in Anaheim, Calif.

She was born Jan. 18, 1890. Family graveside services will be at 2 p.m. today at Chapel Hill Memorial Park, with the Rev. Robert Zetterberg officiating.

Local arrangements were made by Chapel Hill Funeral Home.

Pot charges

A Sterling man was charged with possession of marijuana and public drunkenness following an incident in Dixon Monday.

Gilbert R. Soria, 37, Sterling, was almost hit by a truck when he fell off a bicycle he was riding on the 200 block of West First Street. He reportedly got up and walked into a parked car.

Upon arrest a small amount of marijuana was found in Soria's pocket by Dixon Police officers. Soria was released on bond to appear in court May 11.

Originally used for naval captives, prison ships were probably more horrible than land prisons and were crowded with soldiers. The British started using ships as prisons after the fire of New York City in September, 1776. Improper administration of the prison ships — overcrowding, poor sanitation, and inadequate food — turned them into death traps. It is estimated that as many as 11,500 imprisoned Americans died aboard the New York ships. The World Almanac notes.

Mt. Morris school board vote canvassed

MT. MORRIS — The Mt. Morris School Board met Monday night and canvassed election results which were approved. Incumbent Marvin Miller and William Sweet were board members elected.

Nomination of officers for the new term followed.

Those appointed were: Rob Urish, president; Robert Windett, vice president; Marvin Miller, secretary. Superintendent David Turner was appointed as recording secretary and clerk of the board.

Other board business included:

Regular board meeting is to be held at 7:30 p.m., the third Wednesday of each month.

Tax anticipation warrant bonds for $50,000 in the education fund were issued.

A new board member workshop will be held May 6 at Freeport.

Audit firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., Freeport, was hired for $2,000 to audit the school finances.

Permission was granted to make the infield of the softball diamond on the northeast section of the junior high playground a dirt infield.

Permission to the use of the football field for annual fireworks display July 4 was granted.

Approval was given for Northern Illinois University student teaching in Mt. Morris schools.

Bus bids were awarded to Lace Motor Sales, Oregon, for a Chevrolet chassis for the amount of $7,837 and to Hausman Bus Sales, Peoria, for a 60-passenger bus body for $5,640.

Committee appointments are as follows:

Plans to lease prison land are cut sharply

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Plans to lease state-owned farmland near state prisons have been scaled down sharply because of adverse reaction to the plans, state officials say.

Some 1,872 acres of crop land near three prisons in Southern Illinois — Menard, Vandalia and Vienna — will be retained by the state rather than put up for lease by private farmers, Department of Corrections Director Allyn R. Sielaff said Monday.

But he said 1,694 acres of crop and pasture land near five other prisons will be leased. Sielaff said he abandoned his plan for Menard and Vandalia prisons because of strong adverse reaction to it from legislators and area citizens. He said private farmers showed no interest in leasing some 587 acres of crop land near Vienna.

A special five-member Illinois Senate committee had been created after the plans were announced. The chairman, Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, said the committee plans to report to the Senate in June.

As a result of the department's latest decision, Buzbee said a suit which he and three other state legislators filed in the Circuit Court in Randolph County to block the action will be dropped.

In announcing the original plan, Sielaff had said he hoped to put up for bid about a third of the 12,510 acres of land owned by the department.

Sielaff said the prison farm operations were costing more than they produced and that since many prisoners are from urban areas, the operations were of little value for rehabilitation.

But several legislators and citizens challenged Sielaff's assessment, and said some veteran prison employees were being asked to take pay cuts because of new assignments to non-agricultural jobs such as becoming guards.

The director said the new acreages to be leased are:

Dwight, 48 acres crop land and 46 pasture land; Geneva, 100 acres crop land; Pontiac, 325 acres crop land; Sheridan, 66 acres crop land and 135 acres pasture land; and Stateville, 974 acres crop land.

Advertises to sell eye he can't use

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

BETHALTO, Ill. (AP) — LeRoy Owens has no use for his right eye. For a price, it's yours.

"EYE for sale: due to industrial accident have good eye of little or no use to me, phone..." That's an advertisement he ran last week in a St. Louis newspaper, a three-line item tucked away in the classifieds under Personals. A similar notice ran Monday in an Illinois daily.

"Five years ago I had a severe skull fracture," Owens said. "A large piece of pipe fell on my head. My head was on the floor and the pipe went kapow.

"I lost the use of my right eye. But I didn't lose my sight. The nerves that control the muscles were severed and fractured. I can't use it and I'll never be able to."

There is, he said, little wrong with the blue-green eye apart from the muscle damage. It has near-normal sight. But, he fears, it may soon begin to lose its acuity through disuse.

Nothing, doctors told him, could be done to repair the nerves. If there was no spontaneous improvement within three years, they told him, it was hopeless.

In 1974 he began to consider selling. Someone, he reasoned, might be able to put his eye to better use. He and his wife, Inis, discussed it for about a year. She "more or less told me to do what I wanted," said Owens, the father of four.

He'd kept the eye taped shut, he said, because its abnormal angle of view upsets his equilibrium. "It just peeks at my nose all the time," he said. "It won't move anywhere."

"Being taped shut 90 per cent of the time, it's of no use to me," he said. "A friend of mine once said, 'If you have a lemon, make lemonade out of it.' Besides, it would be kind of nice to see someone be able to see that hadn't been able."

Finally he decided, "Well, why not?" Even if an eyeball transplant proved impractical, he said, he knew cornea transplants are commonplace.

His asking price was $25,000. But by Monday there had been just three inquiries and he was prepared to bargain. "Two people were just curious," Owens said. "The other seemed interested. I'm not disheartened. I'm not giving up. I guess I'll just keep right on advertising. I'll consider anything legitimate."

An electrician at a steel company in Alton, Owens isn't pressed for money. And whatever the price, he said, he expects to spend most of it on legal fees, medical expenses, transportation and the like. "After that I kind of doubt there will be anything left," he said.

Reaction among his fellow workers, the 5-foot-9, brown-haired Owens reported, has ranged "all the way from total negative to total positive."

He hasn't let the critics change his attitude. As he discussed the eye sale with an interviewer Monday Owens was in the company cafeteria, waiting to give blood in a donation drive.

Bicycle Safety Week

This is Bicycle Safety Week. One hundred years ago, a bicycle called the "safety" replaced the high-wheel "boneshaker" bike that carried riders more than 5 feet off the ground. The rear-driven "safety" closely resembled the modern two-wheeler. Unfortunately, the "safety" did not completely fulfill the promise of its name. Each year, about one out of every 167 bicyclists ends up in a hospital emergency room for treatment following a bicycling accident. If the trend continues, this means that of the 75,000,000 bicycle owners in United States today, about 450,000 will be involved in accidents requiring medical treatment this year.

Senior Party Line

Why couldn't school buses be used to transport senior citizens in areas where no other transportation services are available? — K.O.

Dear Mrs. O:

Just last year a bill was passed to provide an opportunity to put an idea such as yours into effect. The new law, which went into effect in October 1975, allows school boards to provide transportation services to non-profit organizations for recreational, cultural, educational and public service programs. The transportation would have to be provided during hours when the buses are not transporting students to and from school.

Under the law, school boards would charge the non-profit organization for the transportation provided and would enter into contracts or agreements with the appropriate agencies. Such a service, however, would not be allowed to compete with established mass transit carriers in the area.

There are many possibilities for cooperation between school districts and other organizations in providing services and programs for senior citizens. For example, several schools in Illinois enable elderly residents to eat lunch in the school cafeteria. It's a good idea and one that extends the social horizons of older citizens in their communities.

Some time ago a committee of the legislature was formed to study the problems of persons in nursing homes. Has this committee published its findings? — T. R. Dear Mr. R:

A legislative subcommittee on long-term care, which includes nursing homes, shelter care homes and homes for the aged, has held a series of public hearings over the past several months and has come up with a number of recommendations. They will be considered by the Human Resources Committee of the Illinois House this Spring.

The subcommittee recommended legislation in several areas. One bill would allow the Department of Public Health to require the installation of fire protection devices in long-term care facilities and would require the department to develop fire safety programs for nursing home personnel. Another bill would enact a Nursing Home Bill of Rights, designed to protect the dignity and privacy of nursing home residents and to provide a framework for acting on complaints.

Other suggestions would require nursing homes to file annual audited financial statements; prohibit political contributions by nursing home licensees; provide for the immediate closure of nursing homes in emergency situations; and allow the Department of Public Health to evaluate specific institutions in its directory of health care facilities. The chairman of the subcommittee is Rep. Joseph Lundy of Evanston.

I've heard talk recently about our pension systems being in trouble. Is this true? And what is being done about it? — S. V. Dear Miss V:

The public pension systems in Illinois are meeting their current obligations. However, over the years a debt based on the expectation of future payments — what is called the unfunded liability — has built up to about $6 billion. If a plan is not developed to attack the debt problem, it will continue to mount. Basically, the state over the past three decades has failed to meet its total responsibilities for pension funding.

A number of proposals have been advanced, and it is obvious that a program will have to be developed to place the pension systems on a sounder footing as far as the future is concerned. The Illinois Pension Laws Commission has appointed a fact finding committee to look into the matter and to recommend methods for reducing the liabilities. The chairman of the committee is Rep. Joseph Ebbesen of DeKalb.

Report Howlett will seek support from Walker

CHICAGO (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael J. Howlett will meet with Gov. Daniel Walker to seek support in the November election in return for a proposal to help the governor erase a $300,000 primary campaign debt, published reports say.

The Chicago Sun-Times reported today that Secretary of State Howlett, who defeated Walker in the March 16 primary, has told close associates he will ask for Walker's backing in the governor's race.

Howlett will meet with Walker in about a week to seek the governor's aid, the newspaper said.

Spokesmen for Howlett and Walker were unavailable for comment.

The Sun-Times said that Howlett associates indicated Howlett has stated that he could support a dinner to raise funds to pay off Walker's primary debt should the governor decide to back him in the general election.

The newspaper said Howlett reportedly feels that Walker has a future with the Democrats and has not ruled out backing him for the U.S. Senate in 1978 in return for Walker's support this fall.

The newspaper quoted Victor de Grazia, a Walker deputy, as saying the governor's chances of supporting Howlett in November "are a lot brighter now than at the end of the campaign, based on these reports."

De Grazia confirmed that Howlett has been in contact with the governor and that the two men have agreed to a meeting, the Sun-Times reported.

A date for the discussion, however, reportedly has not been set. The paper added that several members of Walker's administration, including Ronald Stackler, director of the state Department of Registration and Education, already have told Howlett they will support him this fall.

The paper also reported that Howlett is planning a new campaign that includes restructuring his staff. He is expected to appoint State Democratic Chairman John P. Touhy to head the campaign.

Howlett, who does not plan to resume his campaign for governor until after the Democratic National Convention in July, reportedly has cut back his campaign payroll to one or two persons to save campaign money.

Given probation

Janice Hamilton, address unknown was placed on six months probation Monday by Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales on a conviction for criminal damage to property. The charge stemmed from a Feb. 5 incident at the Roger Hamilton residence in Nelson involving Michelle Baker, Nelson.

Other charges placed against Hamilton including possession of marijuana and battery were dismissed as part of the negotiated plea of guilty.

Robert C. Ohda, 18, Walnut was placed on six months probation and fined $35 on a charge of consumption of liquor as a minor. Ohda was additionally fined $15 on a charge of having unsafe equipment on his car. The youth was arrested by sheriff's deputies March 17.

Increase in rebate

POLO — Polo-City Council of Polo met on Monday night and approved a new resolution to allow a rebate of 35 cents per square foot for concrete sidewalk for city residents. The old rebate was 20 cents per square foot.

Also approved was a resolution for a $285,000 bond issue for the building of the new Beede International facilities in Polo. The original bond issue was planned for $325,000. The new figures for the bond issue was presented by Attorney Luke Morin of Dixon, on behalf of the Beede International Inc.

The council approved a motion to allow $22,000 from the motor fuel tax fund to pay the cost of the street building program on Union Street and Fulton Street, with the resurfacing work starting as soon as possible.

The accounting firm of Hamilton and Blaine, Dixon, was chosen to audit the books for the coming fiscal business year.

Request for delay in trial denied

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal court judge has denied a defense request for postponement in the trial of six former or current state legislators and two other men charged in connection with an alleged bribery scheme aimed at increasing the load limits of ready-mix cement trucks on Illinois highways.

Judge George N. Leighton of U.S. District Court Monday refused to grant a delay requested by defense lawyers because of pretrial publicity.

A total of 71 prospective jurors have been impaneled for the trial but none had been chosen by the end of Monday's session.

Leighton also rejected a defense request to question prospective jurors on whether they had read recent newspaper stories referring to alleged involvement by state legislators in another payoff scheme affecting sludge hauling contracts with the Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District.

"The less said about these articles, the better," Leighton told attorneys in announcing his decision.

The eight men on trial are part of the 15 indicted in 1974 in connection with the alleged $30,000 bribery scheme. Legislation allowing the cement truck weight increase once was passed by the Illinois General Assembly but was vetoed by former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

In requesting that Leighton delay the case, defense attorneys also cited recent news accounts that the Internal Revenue Service has made a practice of investigating persons called for federal jury duty. The attorneys contended that unbiased prospective jurors might be hesitant to serve because of fear of facing IRS scrutiny.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Daniel K. Webb denied that the IRS had investigated any of the prospective jurors in the case.

Defendants in the trial are Reps. Robert D. Craig, D-Danville, John Wall, R-Chicago, and Louis F. Capuzi, R-Chicago; Sen. Kenneth Course, D-Chicago; former Rep. Frank P. North, R-Rockford; former Sen. Jack E. Walker, R-Lansing; Peter V. Pappas, former legislative liaison for the Illinois Secretary of State's office, and Francis L. Sheehan, former president of the Northern Illinois Ready Mix and Materials Association.

Mackanin does his best as Expos edge Cubs 4-3

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Pete Mackanin believes anybody who plays baseball likes to do his best before friends and relatives and the native Chicagoan not only did his best but also got a monkey off his back.
Mackanin hit a home run in Montreal's 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday as his mother, father, four cousins and a host of friends watched. But it was a very special home run. It came with a man on base.
Hitting home runs isn't new to the 24-year-old second baseman because he hit 12 of them last year for Montreal. But hitting a home run with a man on base—that's something else because his previous 12 all came with the bases empty.
"I took a lot of kidding from my teammates last year about that," said Mackanin. "But I think I took a lot of the pressure off this spring when I hit one with two men on."
"Really, I've never considered it a serious problem because I never go up to the plate thinking about a home run. But when you keep hitting home runs with nobody on base, you begin wondering," said Mackanin.
Pete's two-run job came in the fourth inning to wipe out a 2-1 Chicago lead, and Steve Rogers, with ninth-inning help from Wayne Granger, made it stand up for Montreal's third victory in eight games as the Cubs went slumping to their fourth straight defeat.

"We needed that home run, we needed it badly," said Montreal Manager Karl Kuehl. "He hit it in the face of the wind. He hit another one in St. Louis that would have gone out but the wind kept it in."
Kuehl also was enthused over the pitching of Rogers, who gained his first victory against two losses. Rogers gave up six hits and struck out eight before he departed in the ninth after serving up a home run to Jerry Morales.
Rogers can take pride in his feat as he allowed the Cubs, who had scored 29 runs in their previous three games, only six hits and struck out eight.
However, the wind had shifted. Instead of blowing out in the summer weather over the weekend, the wind was blowing in off Lake Michigan in crisp, 52-degree weather which took away from the hitters and gave to the pitchers.
The two teams meet again today in the second of the four-game series, with Geoff Zahn, 0-0, going for Chicago against Woody Fryman,

Unser changes from goat to hero

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
With one wave of his wand, Del Unser made a baseball disappear and at the same time changed himself from a goat into a hero.
A misplay by the New York centerfielder allowed two St. Louis runs in the first inning, but he made up for it in the 17th with a home run that provided the Mets with a 4-3 victory Monday night.
"When you get into extra innings, there's no sense fooling around," said Unser, who pulverized a Mike Wallace fastball with two out to break up a marathon four-hour, 46-minute game.
The shot heard 'round Busch Stadium settled a dramatic battle which had been tied by the Cardinals in the seventh inning, some two hours before.
Unser went up to the plate with one thing in mind: "I was just thinking of swinging at the ball and swinging hard."
Wallace said later he was just thinking of one thing, too: Throwing a fastball on the first pitch to get ahead.
"He's the type of guy that wanted to get ahead," said Unser, who once played with Wallace on the Philadelphia Phillies. "If he had, he's got a good fork ball, and a good curve and he would have been tough to hit."

Extra-inning games are old hat between the Cardinals and Mets. Two years ago, they played a seven-hour, 25-inning affair at Shea Stadium, the longest night game in baseball history.
In the other National League games, the Houston Astros beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-3 and the Montreal Expos downed the Chicago Cubs 4-3. In the American League, the California Angels belted the Baltimore Orioles 9-4; the Oakland A's tripped the Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 10 innings and the Boston Red Sox blanked the Minnesota Twins 2-0.
Unser's hit was his first in eight at-bats and the only extra-base blow among 18 Mets hits off Wallace and five other Cardinal pitchers. Aided by a St. Louis error, New York wiped out a 2-0 St. Louis lead with a three-run burst in the second inning and protected that slim edge until Vic Harris and pinch-hitter Ron Fairly rifled doubles for the Cards off New York ace Tom Seaver.

Seaver then departed in the eighth, giving way to Skip Lockwood, who was followed to the mound by Ken Sanders and Bob Apodaca, 1-0, the winner.
Astros 8, Dodgers 3
Jose Cruz belted a three-run triple to key a four-run first inning and trigger Houston past Los Angeles. Cruz hit climaxed the Astros' big first inning and provided them with their eventual winning run.

The victory boosted Houston into an unaccustomed position — first place in the NL West.
Angels 9, Orioles 4
Bobby Bonds made his debut with California by drilling three singles and stealing a base and the Angels erupted with a 13-hit attack to rout Baltimore in a game marred by a beanball war. The trouble erupted in the eighth inning when Mark Belanger of Baltimore was sent sprawling in the dirt by Angels starter and winner Frank Tanana.
Moments earlier, Angels catcher Andy Etchebarren, a former Oriole, was hit by Baltimore reliever Wayne Garland. That came after Dave Chalk broke up a close game with a bases-loaded triple and then scored himself when he crashed into Baltimore catcher Dave Duncan, knocking the ball loose.
Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles was ejected following the melee, during which no punches were thrown but which had players streaming from both dugouts and bullpens.

ONLY THE SUN GIVES THE PEOPLE OF ILLINOIS MORE ENERGY THAN NI-GAS.

Thirty-six percent of all the utility energy used in Illinois comes from Northern Illinois Gas Company. More than from any other gas or electric company in the state.
But that's only half our story. The other half is all the energy Ni-Gas people are putting into meeting your need for more pure, clean natural gas. And keeping gas the greatest energy value under the sun.
Long range, we're investing more millions in exploration for new natural gas reserves in the Gulf of Mexico.

Closer to home, we're continuing to expand our underground storage system (already the largest of its kind in the world). So we can buy all available gas and store part for winter use when customer needs are greater than pipeline deliveries.
This year, our new Aux Sable Supplemental Natural Gas plant, built at a cost of over $80 million, will manufacture enough gas from liquid hydrocarbons to supply 300,000 of our residential heating customers.
We're continuing our energy conservation surveys for commercial and industrial customers to help them save gas.

And we're increasing our emphasis on new techniques and technology to bring you better service and hold cost down.
These are just a few of the things we're doing. Because the way we see it, being the largest energy distributor gives us the largest responsibility to the people of Illinois. And Northern Illinois Gas Company is going to live up to that responsibility, no matter how much energy it takes.

Northern Illinois Gas Company
WE'RE PUTTING MORE ENERGY INTO ILLINOIS THAN ANYBODY.

Double your winnings without betting anything extra in the new Lottery game.

Bet you've never seen a bet like this before. You get a free chance to double any prize you win in the new dollar game from the Illinois State Lottery, Double Derby.
Match any 3-digit, 4-digit, or 5-digit number on your ticket with the numbers we draw weekly and you win $25, $50, or $500, respectively. Match any number and your lucky color behind that number, and you double the regular prize you just won.
When you match a six-digit number, you've qualified for the Winner's Circle Drawing, and you've won at least $5,000. And maybe $10,000, $25,000, or even $250,000—plus the chance to double any of those prizes! All the way up to $500,000.
And save the Silver Cup stubs that come with your Double Derby ticket. A match with the two-digit number we draw on July 17 pays $5, with a chance to make it $10. Match the three-digit number we'll draw and win $25 and, of course, a chance to make it $50.

Match both the two and three-digit numbers on your stub and you'll win $1,000. But both those matches plus our lucky color shoots your prize up to $5,000...and automatic entry into the Double Derby Silver Cup Drawing, to be held at the famous Hambletonian event at Du Quoin on September 4, with prizes up to $1,000,000.

Double Derby tickets are on sale now. It costs a dollar to try and win a prize. But then it doesn't cost a penny extra for your shot at doubling that prize.
Once you've won in Double Derby, you're playing Double Or Something.
*Winner's Circle drawings will be held whenever ten qualifiers have claimed.
**Top prize of $250,000 to be paid at $25,000 x 10 years. If color is matched at drawing, $500,000 prize will be paid at $25,000 x 20 years.

Win a prize or two.

New Idea's NEW "Hay Thing"

Best there is in heavy, down, tangled hay.

Introducing New Idea's advanced Cut/ditioner — a rugged 7-foot machine that excels in heavy, down and tangled hay. Its non-plug, non-skip operation in any type of hay or forage crop means less downtime and more production. And, it makes a high-quality hay.

Selective conditioning. Knives hit only the stems of plants. This conditions the stems without damaging the leaves.

Try this new Cut/ditioner on your farm.
